

Cantina Laredo sizzles

By Post Staff | Mexican, Restaurant reviews | June 10, 2009

MENU

The restaurant boasts “gourmet Mexican food.” Lots of interesting sauces and cheeses in many dishes. If you can’t make up your mind, there’s the Botanas platter offering several appetizers and the Cantina Laredo platter that includes a cheese chile relleno, tamale, chicken enchilada and fajita beef taco al carbon.

ATMOSPHERE

Subdued lighting, cozy booths and tables. There’s also a large bar area.

OUR FAVORITE FOOD/PRICE

My husband loves soft tacos, and he chose a combination: one with chicken and one with ground beef ($10.29). I decided on chicken fajitas ($16.49) and was glad I did. Grilled chicken breast was heaped on a sizzling platter with onions and peppers. Tortillas, black beans and rice, and a plate with toppings (sour cream, guacamole and pico de gallo) came with it.

REASON TO GO

The freshest guacamole is made at the table. You choose the ingredients.

SERVICE

Our server was excellent. When he realized the kitchen had made a mistake, he quickly brought the correct item and apologized. And my husband hadn’t even pointed out the error!

NOISE LEVEL

We got there after lunch and before dinner, so it was very quiet.

KID FRIENDLY

There is a menu for the small ones, and high chairs are available.
